Day 2: Buenos Aires ~ Ushuaia ~ Embark Expedition Ship

Rise and shine early as we catch a morning flight to Ushuaia, where the hybrid-powered expedition ship, MS Fridtjof Nansen, awaits. Ushuaia, often referred to as the "end of the world," is a charming port city nestled against the dramatic backdrop of the Martial Glacier and surrounding mountains. It's also known for competing with Chilean Puerto Williams for the title of the southernmost city in the world.

Once aboard the ship, attend a mandatory health and safety briefing to prepare for your journey. In the evening, enjoy a welcome dinner hosted by the Expedition Team.

Afterwards, take some time to explore the ship and settle into your home for the upcoming adventure.

MEALS: Breakfast, Dinner

OVERNIGHT: MS Fridtjof Nansen

DAYS 3-4: Sailing through Drake Passage

To reach Antarctica, we first need to cross the legendary Drake Passage. This stretch of water, named after English sea captain Sir Francis Drake, was discovered in 1578 when his ship was blown south by strong winds. With no landmasses to block the wind or currents at this latitude, the Drake Passage can be famously rough, but rest assured, the advanced design of MS Fridtjof Nansen makes the journey comfortable—even if you encounter the occasional "Drake Shake."

The crossing takes around two days, covering roughly 1,000 km, giving you plenty of time to prepare for your Antarctic adventure. The Expedition Team will kick off their lecture program in the onboard Science Centre, sharing their extensive knowledge to ensure your visit is safe and sustainable. You'll also learn about IAATO guidelines, such as wearing sterilised rubber boots ashore and vacuuming your clothing to prevent contamination. For those interested in contributing to live research, the team will introduce hands-on Citizen Science projects you can join.

During the voyage, there's plenty of time to explore the ship. Stay active in the indoor or outdoor gym or unwind with a spa treatment in the Wellness Area. Indulge in gourmet meals at the ship's three restaurants, offering a feast for your taste buds and your eyes.

Don't forget to spend time out on deck—it's the perfect spot to catch your first glimpses of icebergs, whales, and seabirds such as petrels and albatrosses.

MEALS: Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner

DAYS 5-9: Welcome To Antarctica ~ Enjoy the Icescapes

Welcome to Antarctica—a land of towering glaciers, vast icy waters, and icebergs as big as cathedrals. It's a place like no other, where the sheer scale and beauty will leave you in awe. You may need a quiet moment to soak it all in. But that silence often turns to excitement when you spot your first penguin, whale, or seal, with cheers of delight ringing across the ship.

Antarctica's stunning landscapes and wildlife change with the seasons:

Spring (October–November): Snow blankets the land, creating a pristine backdrop for penguins courting and building nests. Whales are rare but start to arrive.

Summer (December–January): The height of summer brings more whales and the hatching of adorable penguin chicks, clumsily exploring their snowy surroundings.

Late Summer (February–March): Peak whale-watching season, as krill attracts large numbers of whales to the area.

During your time here, the Expedition Team will make the most of every opportunity for ice-cruising and shore landings, bringing you closer to the breathtaking landscapes and incredible wildlife. Spotting penguins from the ship is exciting, but going ashore to see them up close is unforgettable. The same goes for seals or whales—whether you're on a small explorer boat or kayaking as part of an optional activity, the encounters are magical.

Keep your camera handy—you won't want to miss a thing! To enrich your experience, the Expedition Team will also give fascinating talks on topics like Antarctica's history, wildlife biology, and glaciology, deepening your appreciation for this unique frozen world.

MEALS: Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner

OVERNIGHT: MS Fridtjof Nansen

After five unforgettable days exploring the wild beauty of Antarctica, it's time to begin our journey back home. By now, your heart and mind will be brimming with lifelong memories, and your camera will likely be full of incredible photos to relive the adventure.

As we cross the Drake Passage once more, take time to go through your photos and reflect on the extraordinary experiences. It's a great way to hold onto the magic of Antarctica just a little longer. The Expedition Team will also be reminiscing, hosting a recap of the journey's highlights in the Science Centre.

You might want to process everything you've seen by staying active in the gym or relax in the Explorer Lounge and Bar, letting your mind wander back to the incredible sights of Antarctica.
